GERRYMANDER PROPOSED BY SENATOR

WOULD REDISTRICT STATE AND PUT PICKAWAY IN THE SIXTH

First List of Governor Donahey's Appointments Sent to Senate for Confirmation -- B. F. McDonald, of Newark, and F. J. Duffy, of East Liverpool, Will Succeed Themselves.

Present Ohio congressional districts which have stood for 12 years despite frequent efforts to change them—are now subjects of a gerrymander attack introduced in the senate Tuesday by Senator Will B. Price, Republican, of Akron. Only the 12th district, comprising Franklin county would remain intact, should this bill be passed.

Present congressional districts were formed 12 years ago by a Democratic legislature in 1913, under the Cox administration. Altho the Republicans have frequently considered re-districting, no bill has passed either house since that of Representative Sprague of Scioto county, in 1915. Then, altho Governor Willis signed the measure, it was defeated by referendum.

If the proposal is adopted Pickaway county will be taken out of the Eleventh district and put in the Sixth and the lineup would be: Champaign, Clarke, Fayette, Greene, Logan, Madison, Union and Pickaway, a district strongly Republican, our own county being the only Democratic one in the bunch.

The following are the changes in congressional districts contemplated by senate bill No. 23, by Senator Price Logan from 7 to 14; Butler, from 3 to 6; Warren from 7 to 6; Green from 7 to 6; Clinton from 7 to 6; Pickaway from 11 to 7; Ross from 11 to 7; Scioto 6 to 7; Hocking 11 to 10; Morgan 15 to 11; Noble 15 to 11; Washington 15 to 11; Monroe 15 to 11; Guernsey 15 to 11; Belmont 18 to 15; Harrison 18 to 15; Jefferson 18 to 15; Columbiana 18 to 15; Carroll 18 to 15; Licking 17 to 13; Knox 17 to 13; Tuscarawas 16 to 13; Mahoning 19 to 18; Trumbull 19 to 18; Ashland 17 to 13; Holmes 16 to 13; Medina 14 to 17; Summit 14 to 17; Portage 14 to 16; Huron 13 to 14; Erie 13 to 14; Wood 13 to 5; Seneca 13 to 14; Sandusky 13 to 14; Union 7 to 8; Delaware 17 to 8; Ottawa 9 to 14; Lucas becomes 9 (alone); Cleveland becomes 20, 21, 22; Lake 22 to 19, which includes all of Cuyahoga county except Cleveland and Geauga 22 to 19.

Dayton, O., Jan. 15.—Deluxe passenger service and supplemental use of busses are the salvation of the traction industry in the middle west, according to Harry Reid, of Indianapolis, president of the Central Railway association, in annual meeting here.

Declaring the traction business is on the best footing since the war, Reid said deluxe passenger service is already being established, including diners, sleepers and parlor cars.

Radio Saves 700 Vessels

Neah Bay, Wash.—Between 700 and 800 vessels received information as to their location in foggy and stormy weather during the past six weeks by the range-finding station on Vancouver island. Nearly 200 requests came from captains who had ventured almost on the verge of shipwreck on the rocky reefs, proving the worth of the radio.

The senate rules committee Wednesday had the first list of Governor Donahey's appointments sent to them by the executive late Tuesday.

The list included the reappointment of B. F. McDonald, Newark, as state prohibition commissioner. McDonald's term expired Monday.

The other appointments were all so called recess appointments, made by the governor since the last legislative session. They included:

Edward J. Cavan, of Cleveland, John H. Clemmer, of Akron, Herbert Briggs, of Cleveland, William C. Groeniger and Peter E. Dempsey, both of Columbus, to the board of building standards.

T. J. Duffy, East Liverpool, reappointed member of the state industrial commission.

Alma W. Paterson, Columbus trustee of Ohio State university.

Joseph L. Johnson, Columbus, and D. F. Smith, Cincinnati, trustees of Wilberforce university.

GIFT OF A BIRD LOVER

Referring to himself as "an old friend of Washington's warblers," Jules Jusserand, retiring French ambassador, paid tribute to the capital's song birds by dedicating to them a bird fountain on the lawn of the John Dickinson home on Fourteenth street. The fountain is made of yellow marble imported from France and the inscription reads "Dedicated to the birds of Piney Branch by Elsie and Jules Jusserand, 1903-1925."

After Tynan had ignored the governor's orders, a writ of mandamus was issued in district court in Canon City ordering him to show cause as to why he should not give up his office and hearing on the writ was set for Saturday.

Gov. Sweet ordered Tynan suspended for ten days pending the hearing of charges of brutality in his treatment of prisoners brought against him.

DEFECTS WERE NOT ALARMING IN TAG PAINT.

Columbus, Jan. 14.—(United Press) Recommending that payment for the paint with which they were covered be held up pending further investigation, Professor James R. Withrow, of Ohio State university, today laid his formal report before Governor Donahey relative to alleged defects in the 1925 auto license plates.

Withrow said there was no seriously alarming defect in the tags that were distributed adding that his investigation did leave "a serious count as to the quality of the paint."

There was nothing revealed in his investigation to warrant the extra expenses to the state of having all of the tags varnished, the chemist said.

H. G. GRINER FILES COUNTY ROAD REPORT

Maintenance of County Roads for Past Fifteen Months Shows That It Costs $120.13 a Mile.

The annual road maintenance report of the county surveyor, H. G. Griner, has been submitted to the county commissioners. The report is exhaustive in scope and includes the total mileage, maintained, the actual cost of labor, gravel, new culverts, stone, drags, pipes, tarvia and miscellaneous work done on the county maintained roads from October 8, 1923 to January 1, 1925.

The report covers fifteen months and includes all the court items for that period. A separate report is given which includes only the cost of labor by patrolmen and truckmen and the gravel used on the 187.8 miles of maintained roads.

The cost of maintaining these roads in the period already mentioned is given at $22,561.64 or $120.13 a mile. The report is on file and can be seen at the office of the county auditor.

During the recent cold weather the fall of snow was removed and scraped off by drags which made the roads passable and preserves the roads against thawing and freezing which break up the pikes quickly. The work was done in one day.

Marriage Information Bureau Proves Success

Hamburg.—Hamburg boasts of having established the first bureau of information on matrimonial matters in Germany.

The bureau has been in operation for less than a year, but its success is so great the Prussian landtag, or provincial assembly, will soon consider advisability of creating similar public bureaus in other cities.

Advice is given gratuitously to persons of all classes of society and of both sexes. The staff is for the most part unpaid, the members considering it an honor to give their time and thought to helping bring about happier marriages.

LICENSE TAGS LETTER BEFORE THE NUMERAL

So Many Figures on Plate Not Easy Reading—Same Sets in District Each Year.

(United Press)
Columbus, O., Jan. 15.—An auto license tag marketing system that would lighten the work of police, is proposed for next year by Chalmers R. Wilson, state registrar of automobiles.

The number of autos in Ohio has permanently passed the million point. The highest numbered licenses would require seven figures unless the present practice of using a star to represent a million is continued.

Citing complaints that even six figures are too many for easy reading, Wilson will recommend that the next year's will be limited to five figures with an initial letter before the numeral.

The letter would indicate the district—perhaps the county and a custom would be established to send the same lettered sets to the same district each year.

BURGLARS GET MERCHANDISE AT ROTHMAN'S

Department Store Entered by Front Door and $300 Worth of Wearing Apparel Taken.

Rothman's Department store was entered by burglars at an early hour this morning and about $300 worth of merchandise taken.

The building was entered by the night marauders, thru a front door, the glass of which was found shattered by Jay Martin, employed by the Water Supply company, as he was going on an errand for the company to Schleger Brothers, whose establishment is in the adjoining building to the Rothman store on South Pickaway. Neither Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goeller nor Miss Maggie Viney, who live just across the street failed to hear the noise of falling glass. Either gummed paper or a blanket was used by the thieves, as it is evident no noise was made by shattered glass.

Edward Rothman was in the store until nearly twelve o'clock straightening up stock and attending to some correspondence. The family live just south of the store on the corner of the alley.

Most of the articles taken were from the rear of the store where the thieves could work unmolested. A number of garments were taken from the show windows. The articles taken and listed by Edward Rothman were three overcoats and two ladies' suits from the show windows, four ladies' red silk dresses, six ladies' coats, among them a fine plush coat, four silk skirts and a dozen or more pairs ladies' silk bloomers, a number of suitcases and about $6 in money from the register. It is thought that the thieves watched the movements of Mr. Rothman when he left the store and as soon as the neighborhood was quiet they began operations.

This part of the city is not policed by a merchant officer and it is off the beat of a regular police officer and this fact must have been known to the burglars.

The plate glass in the front door was insured in the Hummel & Plum agency.

It is Mr. Rothman's intention to have the thieves run down by a private detective agency.

When Dads Used the Whip

I once tried smoking Aunt Maha-Ja's pipe after she had laid it aside, and became very sick. While in this condition someone reported the incident to my father, who came after me and gave me what we called a whaling. I saw him coming, trimming a switch, and understood what it meant, for whipping children was very common in that day.

The first compliment ever paid me was from my mother, who said I was a good-looking baby but had gotten bravely over it. The second came from my Aunt Beckie, who said I was smart; that when my father hit me the first lick I fell and screamed so loud he thought he was murdering me and soon quit, whereas my brother Jim sullenly took punishment, which caused the whip to be laid on all the harder.

We never made camp in our trip to the West by covered wagon, that some of the children were not whipped; frequently fathers and mothers led their children off, the children screaming, "I'll be good! I'll be good!"

In this modern day I have not seen a child whipped in many years. Whether the old custom was better than the new I do not know, but I have never whipped my own, and have good children.—E. W. Howe in the Saturday Evening Post.

BISHOP MAKES APPEAL FROM CONVICTION

Says That the Clergy Has Always Obstructed Progress and Has Retarded Civilization.

By Julian M. Snyder

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Cleveland, Jan. 13.—In a dramatic appeal from his conviction of heresy, Bishop William Montgomery Brown today demanded that the Episcopal Church take one of two courses:

1. Reverse the verdict of the trial court which found him guilty or,
2. Serve notice upon the world that no one is welcome in the Episcopal Church whose brain is still alive.

"The Church," he said "must take its choice. It cannot do both.

"If it pursues the course of the prosecution it thus serves notice upon the world that no one is welcome in its communion whose brain is still alive. If it sacrifices me as a poor old goat upon the altar of a worn-out ecclesiastical assumption it will only bring disaster upon itself."

The aged prelate struck boldly at the ancient Creeds and Doctrines which form the very heart of Christianity.

"In the light of modern intelligence," he declared, "the supernaturalism of the Bible, including the Virgin Birth and the resurrection, stand revealed as myths.

Swinging into a severe indictment of the history of all Christianity Brown charged that the clergy has always obstructed progress. The Church, he said, through keeping education and enlightenment from the masses of the people has retarded civilization 1,000 years.

Brown recalled that at one time the Church opposed freeing slaves, opposed science and philosophy, opposed prohibition and woman's rights.

Then with sprightly sarcasm the white-haired Bishop asked:

"Which of you today will remind the women of America, as your predecessors did, that Paul bade women keep their heads covered and maintain silence? Or that a woman, if she desires to learn, must ask her husband?"

Brown said that he was one of a mighty group of heretics in the Church and cited as evidence of the church's decay the fact that very few of the modern educators were devout Churchmen.

The Bishop in several instances attacked the church with shafts of sharp wit. He declared that his accusers would, "like Joshua, command the sun to stand still: forbid progress in the name of the Prayer Book."

"I plainly take note," he said, "that during the last half century, when the influences of the church has materially diminished, there has been a material improvement of economic and moral conditions."

Brown described a heresy trial in this age of enlightenment as an absurd farce and said that he had been tried not through malice but through an unfortunate dilemma to which the ecclesiastical mind is heir.

For nearly three years Brown has been gathering information, writing and rewriting the brief which he presented today before the eight prelates constituting the highest ecclesiastical court of the Episcopal Church.

Brown, who is 69, was unable to deliver his appeal orally. It was submitted to the prelates in writing.

Last May 17 the trial court, sitting in the chapel of Trinity Cathedral, where today's appeal was heard, convicted Brown of Heresy. Almost like a ghost of the middle ages the charges of heresy came back and struck like a thunderbolt in the very center of modern civilization.

The charges were brought by the House of Bishops on 23 alleged heretical quotations from Brown's book "Communism and Christian-ism." In the book the author accepted the supernaturalism of the Bible, not literally, but only in their symbolic interpretation.

Anglo-Saxons.

The Angles, or Engles, were a people once located in a part of the world now known as Schleswig-Holstein and who accompanied or immediately followed the Saxons into England. The Angles are believed to have been the more powerful race, for they occupied the larger portion of Britain, and they gave their name to the land, for out of Engle grew the word England and the Saxons made the word Anglo-Saxon.

Has Used Over 200 Bottles in Nine Years.

Grove City, September 6, 1924.

Mr. F. L. Fickardt
Circleville, Ohio.

Dear Mr. Fickardt:--

Perhaps you do not remember the incident but about nine years ago I tried out Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops to satisfy in my own mind the truth of the statements I had heard.

I took two equal number of birds in exactly the same condition and tried out your Drops as against another Nationally advertised poultry remedy. I used both as the directions stated until I thoroughly satisfied myself that Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops were superior for the use that it is intended. Since I convinced myself that Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops were the best, I have used it exclusively on all my poultry and in all that time I have never had an epidemic of any kind. I firmly believe this is due to keeping your remedy before them all the time.

I know that I have returned more than two hundred empty bottles, but how many more I bought I can't tell. Altho you do not make any claim for your remedy as an egg producer I can because I get more eggs now that I did before I used Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops. This is probably due to the fact that my chickens are always in first class condition.

My eggs and butter pay our household expenses. I would not undertake to raise poultry without Fickardt's medicine.

Sincerely,
Mrs. John R. Shelton

Views Women as Pictures

Some women came to my house to dinner the other day, and began abusing the men. They said: "Present company excepted," but I begged them to enjoy themselves, and include me. Every little while I said something to further provoke them, and they finally did their best.

"Ladies," I said, "you have no idea how ashamed I am of my sex."

I told them of a man I know, married three times, who solemnly declares he never in his life proposed marriage to any woman.

"I can easily believe the story," I added; "I never did."

I have heard it said of a great painting: "Don't get too close to it." In order to get the best out of a picture, view it in the proper light, and from a distance; never crowd up, and get so close a look that you realize the rough way in which it was made.

Same way with women (I said to them).

"I prefer to view them from a distance; never closer than four or five feet."

When Blanche Sweet was in England in connection with the production of "Tess of the d'Urbervilles," she met by chance, one day in London, a woman friend of long acquaintance, from home. The friend was a staunch teetotaler and an ardent advocate of prohibition for all and sundry. Judge then of her disgust when her prize Peke darted through the swing doors of a "pub" she was passing and disappeared from view.

Both women called and coaxed, but doggie would not respond. For either of them to venture inside was, of course, unthinkable, and, eventually, Miss Sweet's friend appealed to a passerby, obviously, a laborer.

"Would you kindly fetch my little dog out of that public-house, please!"

"Suttlingly, lady, suttlingly; er—which bar was you in?"—San Francisco Argonaut.

TO REFLOAT SUBMARINE ON SAND BAR

Which Went On a Sand Bar Off the Massachusetts Coast Early Yesterday.

(United Press.)

Orleans, Mass., Jan. 14.—An effort will be made at high water today to pull the submarine S-19 clear from the sand bar on which she grounded near here early yesterday. Two coast guard boats and a tug are standing by.

The crew remained aboard the undersea craft all night, preferring the comparative comfort of their ship to the hazards of a trip ashore in small boats. A similar trip by coast guardsmen nearly took toll of 19 lives yesterday when their boat overturned.

While the sea had moderated somewhat during the night and the submarine appeared to have worked its way onto the sand bar for a distance of several feet, captain C. F. Martin expected ultimately to get her off.

* * * * * AMUSEMENTS * * * * *

A new screen star who actually leaps into immediate popularity is introduced in the interesting Metro-Goldwyn film now playing at the Met theater. The new lumina makes his initial bow in the title role of "The Silent Accuser," produced and directed by Chester M. Franklin and is presented by Louis B. Mayer. He is Peter the Great, a canine actor of extraordinary ability and appeal.

The story of "The Silent Accuser" has great strength and the rapidly moving, closely knit episodes furnish the talented dog with material that calls for almost human acting, but which the animal does in such a way that it seems natural and not trick stuff.

Altho the main interest centers on the dog, the human actors and the exciting story also grip the interest. Eleanor Boardman, Raymond McKee and Earle Metcalfe are the featured players. Incidentally the popular Miss Boardman plays a youth during a part of the story, which tells of how the hero's dog is the only witness to a murder and is solely responsible for catching the real criminal when his master is falsely accused. The story was written by Jack Boyle and adapted to the screen by Frank O'Connor, the assistant director, and Chester M. Franklin, who directed the picture.

Too much credit cannot be given to Mr. Franklin for his handling of this difficult production. He has been able to make the marvelous feats of the dog into contributing factors in the progress of the story and not just stunts.

There are thrills, sustained excitement, love interest, a large measure of natural comedy—but above all there is such an amount of honest human appeal that everyone responds to it.

Incidentally, "The Silent Accuser" is one of those rare pictures that absolutely enthalls grownups and children equally. And the marvelous photography of Charles Dreyer is a tribute to the cameraman's art. Cedric Gibbons designed the sets, Sophie Wachner made the costumes and Lloyd Nosler was film editor.

Youth Is No Longer "Seen But Not Heard"

The baby of today seems to be born with wireless phones over his ears. And as we watch him through the stages by which he reaches manhood we hold our breath and marvel. For he is not as we have seen.

He has no time for the childish pleasures once so satisfying, now but a pleasant memory. His whole life, writes Richard Carol in the Edinburgh Scotsman, takes advantage of all that the progress of scientific discovery has made possible, eliminating that which does not help toward the grand ambition. Science it is which, at an early age, seizes hold of him and, enthraling him with its mystery, soon adds him to its list of victims.

His very toys are marvels of scientific endeavor. But he is not content, as we were, to remain in simple wonderment at their efficiency or pull them to pieces to see how it worked. He examines them as scientifically as they were put together and lays bare their mystery. And so he talks in technicalities and leaves his fond parent tongue-tied and amazed at his wonderful progeny.

With a confidence and assurance that rouses the jealousy of the older man, whose more intimate knowledge of the world has brought a discretion in argument, he launches out into discussions on subjects voted deadly dull and boring by the schoolboy of the previous generation, and even by us now, who were those schoolboys.

No longer does the modern youngster call his father and mother pater and mater, respectively. Now it is Jim and Jean. He is on equal terms. Respect for elders is obsolete. In fact, he almost despises, or perhaps pities is the kinder word, his parents who are so frightfully behind the times with their ideas. Sometimes he even condescends to undertake their further education.

Where will it all end? Are we now the beholders of a race of coming supermen who, with thoughts at fifteen similar to ours at thirty, will go leaping forward to a state of mental efficiency hitherto undreamed of?

I should like to think it so. Yet, in all other matters Nature seems averse to this missing out of steps. And then there comes back to my mind the case of a professor who devoured Greek while his coevals played with bricks; soon after he had passed his sixtieth year he was discovered in his study playing with bricks—and I wonder.

First Aid

"What did you do when Bluebell fainted from the heat?"
"Rushed her into a drug store for first aid."
"Did that help her?"
"Oh, yes. The soda clerk fixed her up a nice ice cream sundae."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

KEEPING WELL

CATARACT

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

THE eye is a photographic camera, or, rather, the camera is an imitation of the eye. The light rays enter the camera through the lens and fall on the film or plate. The same arrangement exists in the eye. The eye-lids are the shutters; the crystalline lens is the focusing machinery; the retina is the plate. If the lens in your camera became cloudy or opaque, you couldn't take a picture. If anything happens to the crystalline lens in the eye so that the light cannot pass through it, then that eye cannot see, because no light can reach the retina.

The old Greeks and Romans thought that vision was located in the lens. When it became thickened and white, they thought that water had fallen down in front of the lens, so they called this waterfall by its Greek name, cataract. We now know that this thickening is not in front of the lens but in the lens itself or in the capsule or envelope which surrounds it. This thickening of the lens often occurs in old age. Just why the lens thickens in old age we do not know. It may be one of the changes due to age, like gray hair. But many old people never have cataract. It is sometimes found in young children. It may be caused by other conditions, such as diabetes, Bright's disease, poisoning, injury or eyestrain.

It is especially frequent in persons exposed to high degrees of heat, such as glass blowers and furnace workers. It is sometimes hereditary.

In the beginning the clear, transparent lens becomes spotted, or streaked with white bands, the vision is weakened or the patient may see double, or may see black specks. One peculiar symptom is that the patient can see better in the twilight than he can in bright daylight. The white spots and bands slowly increase, the pupil becomes white and the patient gradually becomes blind.

Cataract may affect one or both eyes or it may attack the eyes successively. It may become stationary at any time, leaving the sight impaired but still present to a considerable degree, or it may rapidly develop in both eyes until the patient is completely blind.

Cataract does not destroy sight. It forms a light-proof shutter in the front of the eye. If the thickened and useless lens is removed, sight can be restored. This is done by the eye surgeon, who nicks the conjunctiva, which covers the eyeball, cuts through the envelope which surrounds the lens and pops the hardened lens out through the opening just as the cook pops peas out of their pods.

But this cannot be done successfully until the cataract is "ripe," that is, until the lens is hard enough to pop out in one piece. If done too soon, it won't come out clean; if too late, it may have grown fast. The eye surgeon can tell when the right time comes.

When the cataract is removed, the light can get into the eye. But the patient can't focus. So he has to have artificial lenses in the form of glasses to focus the light rays on the retina.

The Worry Killer

"Don't worry," says the doctor and "don't worry," says the friend, but "how can I stop worrying," says the worried one. "When I have so much to worry about?" Recreation offers the means, says one who knows. Every man should have a hobby or two to divert his mind and relax the tension of business and other cares.

Chauncey Depew took up speech-making as a hobby. In order to prepare and deliver his after-dinner speeches, he was compelled to completely forget his duties as railroad president. He is more than ninety years old now and is still serving the New York Central railroad. Gardening, music, reading, art and a thousand other things offer opportunities for persons to forget their troubles. Play is the best kind of exercise and callisthenics will help. Keep busy and do not eat too much.

Portable X-Ray a Boon

Dr. W. D. Coolidge, formerly a professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has invented a portable X-ray machine, which will be a boon to rural residents besides being valuable in commercial life. The machine may be carried around like a small hand grip. It will enable plumbers to see pipes hidden in walls, gem buyers to detect fake gems, and will enable the country doctor to carry modern curative science into the inland home.

Nature's Wisdom

Nature gives to every time and season some beauties of its own; and from morning to night, as from the cradle to the grave, is but a succession of changes so gentle and easy that we can scarcely mark their progress.—Dickens.

NEW BUREAU OF CREDITS ORGANIZED

Business Men Form Company to Keep Record of the Promitude of Charge Customers.

Circleville is soon to have a Credit Bureau. George S. Parker, representing the Merchants Credit Co., Inc., of Washington D. C., has been in the city for the past week, promoting the organization, which has been favorably received by many of the leading firms of the city and has been endorsed by the directors of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce at a meeting called for that purpose.

This organization has a two fold object. One of them is to prevent the business men being mulcted by people who are habitually remiss in meeting their bills and the other is to make it easy for those who respect their obligations to make it known to the business men.

Credit conditions in the past few years have changed very rapidly. Modern credit is conducted upon the chain principle. Every link is correlated and dependent upon each one in the whole chain. One poor link will weaken all the others. If the consumers do not pay their bills promptly the retailer cannot pay promptly to the wholesaler, the wholesaler cannot pay the manufacturer and the manufacturer cannot pay for his raw materials or labor.

Mr. Parker terms his company a promoter of community happiness for the happy community is that where every man pays promptly and does not oblige himself to pay more than he has reasonable certainty of being able to pay.

The Making of a Match.

Thorpe gives the following proportions for match head and for striking surface: Head composition: Potassium chlorat, five parts; potassium bichromat, two parts; glass powder, three parts; gum, two parts. Rubbing surface: Antimony trisulfid, five parts; red phosphorus, three parts; manganese dioxide, one and one-half parts; glue, four parts.—Electrical Experimenter.

Cannibal Fish.

Many fresh-water fish copy the sole and turn cannibal. Pike are the worst in this respect but trout have similar habits. Almost every pool in a brook has its cannibal which accounts daily for half a dozen of its younger brethren.

Hanging Pictures.

It is easy to make mistakes in the hanging of pictures. Observing the following as a guide, you will make fewer mistakes in this respect. First, a plain paper for the room is almost imperative. This will give you an opportunity to use all the pictures, no matter what they are. Soft grays and terra cotta tones are best for background. Avoid figured and highly-colored papers as these prevent the picture from standing out. Be careful not to tilt the pictures too much. Hang them almost flat.

Great and Small Things.

We are too fond of our own will. We want to be doing what we fancy mighty things, but the great point is, to do small things, when called to them, in a right spirit.—R. Cecil.

New Models—and Fords

EVERY NEW FORD IS A NEW MODEL

It is the custom of most manufacturers to keep all their improvements for a year and then feature them in a new model. This gives a stimulant to the sales of that car once a year. Every shipment of Ford cars we receive is improved over the last, so EVERY NEW FORD CAR IS A NEW MODEL.

A few of the improvements in the last month are:

More accessible crank case opening
Light pistons to give less vibration.
Improved distribution of oil in transmission.
Increase in volume and pressure in oiling system.
More steel and less wood in closed car bodies.

You don't have to wait a year for improvements in Fords, each car is improved over the last one. Too many of our new prospects are going to buy in the spring, they are going to be disappointed, at least some of them are going to wait, or take some inferior car.
